EAST FLOOD SWEEP; MANY DIE

NEWS POINTED OUT AS KILLER BEFORE JURORS

Saw Braverman Die, Witness Says.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Merrill and Carl Morrell, both indicted for the murder of Harry J. Lewis, were brought to the attention of the jury by the prosecution. The defense attorneys, however, sought to establish that the two men were innocent of the crime.

Lewis Newman yesterday made good his promise to testify against Harry J. Lewis, labor agent, who is on trial for the murder last Aug. 28 of Max Braverman, junk peddler. Lewis, who was in the room at the time of the murder, testified that he saw Braverman die.

The hearing of evidence began after a short recess. The defense attorneys, however, sought to establish that the two men were innocent of the crime.

THOUSANDS FLEE IN NEW ENGLAND; MILLIONS LOST

Montpelier, Vt., Other Towns Inundated.

(By the Associated Press.)

A steadily mounting death toll and property damage of millions of dollars is indicated in reports from flood ravaged towns of New England. Unconfirmed reports were that from 137 to 213 persons lost their lives in Montpelier, Vt., with the collapse of a large reservoir.

A score or more of other deaths were reported from Vermont, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Residents of many sections spent the night in darkness, and thousands of families, forced from their flooded homes, took to higher ground.

Flood conditions extended into part of New York state, up into Maine, where a 65 mile gale whipped the sea into a fury and sank at least one ship, and into Canada, where crops were destroyed and railroad lines washed out.

Lieutenant Governor Dead.

Blaghamton, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. S. A. Jackson of Vermont lost his life in the flood which has engulfed Montpelier, according to a wireless telegram from an amateur station at Rutland, Vt., signed by L. J. Kelly, the Montpelier correspondent of the Associated Press.

The message said also that nine persons were dead in the neighboring city of Carré. The message reported that the flood waters were twenty feet deep, that persons were marooned in their homes, and that the Red Cross was dispensing food and relief. No check had been made on the total loss of life and damage to property.

Message from Montpelier.

Kelly's "sketchy" message follows: "Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 4. [5:20 p. m.]—[By radio via Blaghamton, N. Y.]—Montpelier and central Vermont excepted worst flood in history. Extent of damage unknown. No check yet on loss of life.

Rain has been falling for the last 25 hours. All business places closed. Property loss may reach millions. Red Cross distributing food. All communication except radio cut off.

"Report of ten killed in Barre not confirmed. Thrilling rescues of life occurred. Many people still marooned in blocks with water running in streets. Water 30 feet above normal. Water in principal streets.

"Lieut. Gov. S. H. Jackson reported killed in Barre. Light and power off all day. Many bridges, highways, and railroad tracks carried away. Farms under water. It will be Monday before railroad communication can be resumed."

Nov. 5, 12:55 a. m.—Power off all day.

"The greatest flood catastrophe in the history of New England tonight had taken the lives of at least eighteen persons and had caused damage which may reach as high as $50,000,000.

Reports that had not been confirmed at midnight indicated the tragedy might be a far greater one. Word reached White River Junction during the evening that the collapse of a huge reservoir had flooded Montpelier, Vt., the state capital, with heavy loss of life. According to these reports the death list ran from 137 to 213.

Montpelier is isolated and frantic efforts to get definite word from there called. Since early Thursday night not a word has come from the capital city. Two telephone girls who left the city at 3 p. m. Thursday said that water was running ten feet deep in State street, the main thoroughfare.

Railroad Lines in Chaos.

Chaos of railroad transportation by the storm and flood probably was unparalleled. New England was cut off from rail communication from Canada, Vermont, and New York except through New York City. The express that connected with New York and New England either were stalled or hours late and with prospects of getting through indefinitely.

The flooded areas in north Vermont and New York are the same areas that supply Greater Boston with milk, and officials of the Boston and Maine railroad said only 10 per cent of Boston's milk supply would reach this city tomorrow.

Kidnaper of Detroit Wife Hunted Here

Mrs. H. S. McClellan, wife of a Detroit automobile dealer, was at the Hotel La Salle last night in a condition bordering on hysteria, the result of a wild ride from Detroit to Chicago, taken at the order of an armed kidnaper, who is being sought by police here in the haunts of bootleggers and drug peddlers.

Mrs. McClellan's husband came to Chicago yesterday after receiving a telephone message from his wife, who was released by her captor at 31st street and South Park way. He said they would return home as soon as Mrs. McClellan was able to travel, but that they would come back to Chicago to prosecute the kidnaper if he is caught.

She Tells of Kidnaping. The meeting of Mrs. McClellan, who is about 45 years old and a leading worker in the Metropolitan Methodist church of Detroit, and the man with whom she made her unwilling trip occurred in front of a bank on Woodward avenue in Detroit, she said. She had left her automobile, and when she returned to it the man was in the rear seat. Two others, apparently friends of his, were nearby on the sidewalk.

The kidnaper flashed a pistol and informed Mrs. McClellan that she was going to drive him to Chicago. "That's the best way to get there without meeting any cops," one of the others said.

Threatens Her with Death. Obeying the kidnaper's orders, Mrs. McClellan drove toward Chicago. The man lay on the floor until they reached the open highway, when he took a seat beside her. On the way he assured her she would not be harmed unless she failed to carry out his commands, in which case she would be killed.

Leaving her at 31st street, the man took her purse, which contained $36,000, and South Park way, where she told her story to South Park policeman John Manly. Later she communicated with Glenn Darling of 1400 Lake Shore drive, a friend, and with her husband. She described her captor as about 25 years old, apparently an Italian and well dressed.

GUARD MADE ILL BY POISON CANDY SENT TO REMUS

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 4.—(AP)—George Remus, former bootleg king, awaiting trial for the slaying of "his wife," Imogene Remus, frustrated what was believed an attempt to end his life by means of poison candy today. A box of candy, addressed to Remus, was received by guards at the county jail and delivered to the prisoner. Remus passed it around. Remus got a taste of poison in the candy as he bit into a piece.

Samuel McQueen, one of the guards, already had swallowed a piece of the candy. McQueen became ill. The writing on the wrapper of the candy box was in a woman's hand. Remus waived his right to an insanity examination today and agreed to stand trial Nov. 24 on a charge of first degree murder.

LOSES A SAMPLE CASE CONTAINING $71,000 IN JEWELS

Blaming himself for his carelessness, Harry Koush, member of a New York jewelry firm, reported to police the loss last night of a sample case containing $71,000 in platinum and jewels. Koush rented an automobile yesterday to visit Chicago business houses, he said, and parked the machine in Grant park. When he went to get the car he mislaid the sample case and was unable to find it when he drove back to his parking place, he said. Police believe that some other autist picked it up and carried it away.

Brazil Takes $36,000,000 of U. S. Gold

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special].—The government of Brazil, at the direction of Dr. Getulio Vargas, minister of finance, has arranged to take $36,000,000 in gold from the stock now held in the United States, and has elected to take it in $20 gold pieces. The first shipment, aggregating $11,000,000, will go forward to Rio de Janeiro on the Munson line steamship Pan-American, sailing tomorrow. Others will follow at close intervals and the entire amount will be in the treasury of the Brazilian government by the first of the year.

Shipment Is Secret.

Great secrecy surrounded the arrangements for the shipment, the largest outflow of gold this year and one which probably will have material effect on economic conditions not only in South America but in this country as well.

The entire shipment will remove from the treasury vaults of this country 47 tons of gold, or 1,500,000 twenty-dollar gold pieces. The precious metal will be shipped in small kegs, $50,000 to the keg. It will be under heavy guard for the entire voyage and is insured for its full amount, the coverage being so heavy for this tremendous sum that it is lightly covered over a large number of American and foreign countries, each taking a small "piece" of the risk.

Transferred in Trucks.

Tomorrow's shipment was transferred through the maze of downtown traffic to the piers of the Munson line in Hoboken in a procession of heavily guarded motor trucks this afternoon.

The American $20 gold pieces will be used eventually to bring Brazil back to the gold basis through a reorganization of the monetary system of that country. This can not be done immediately, but the first step is thus taken in assembling in Rio de Janeiro the metal which will furnish that sure backing for the new South American currency.

DUCK SHOOTERS POT TAME FLOCK ON NORTH SHORE

Wild ducks were flying south yesterday and it was a fine day for hunters. Tame ducks were doing no flying, but some of them were out of luck along with their wild relatives.

Gabe Wagner of Kenilworth asked the police of several north shore towns to look for miscreants who herded his flock of tame mallards from his estate down on to Wilmette harbor and there spent a pleasant afternoon picking them off.

Police said the hunting must have been almost ideal, since the birds were so fat, tame, and trusting that they would not fly away, but would merely swim about and try to dodge the buckshot.

ARMY BALLOONIST LOST IN CLOUDS ON FLIGHT FOR RECORD

Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Lost to the view of four army escort planes, when he disappeared into the clouds over McLeansboro, Ill., shortly after 3 p. m. today, Capt. Hawthorne Gray, bent on breaking the free balloon altitude record, was missing tonight.

Capt. Gray ascended from Scott field at 2:22 p. m. and was soon up to an altitude where the winds were blowing at 50 miles an hour. The four army planes followed him until he and his craft were hidden by the clouds. Two planes landed at Henderson, Ky., and the other two at Madisonville, Ky. Officials of Scott field said tonight it was possible that Gray had landed in the mountainous country of southwest Kentucky.

Capt. Gray ascended last May 4 to a height of 42,470 feet, the highest ever reached by man, but the record was disallowed because he was forced to descend by parachute.

5 GARAGES BURN; COPS FIRE, CHASE, SEIZE SUSPECT

Suspected of being a firebug, Gus Nagel was seized by the Sheffield avenue police last night. The arrest followed investigation of two dozen recent incendiary blazes in that district.

Motorcycle Policemen Frank Martyn and John Casarik fired several shots at him in an alley near Diversey parkway and Halsted street. He was questioned about five garage fires occurring during the evening. The first blaze was reported at 2625 Halsted and the four others within a radius of a few blocks.

Nagel said he is 45, and a garbage wagon driver, living at 1855 Dalkin street. His capture was due to Capt. Hugh McCarthy's orders to watch near-by alleys as soon as a first alarm came. Capt. McCarthy believed a pyromaniac never is content with starting only one fire.

CHICAGO'S FIRST SNOW OF SEASON FALLS AMID RAIN

A few flurries of white flakes mixed with raindrops yesterday composed Chicago's first snow of the autumn. Forecaster C. A. Donnell reported that the snow fell shortly before noon and again at 2 p. m. Today's forecast is for cloudy and somewhat colder.

At Glencoe during the afternoon there was a severe electrical storm accompanied by hail. A high tension wire that snapped on the Illinois Country club links endangered the lives of several players. Snow flurries were seen in Oak Park, Austin, and Mayfield.

According to the general forecast, a moderate cold wave has developed in the northwest. Shippers were advised to protect consignments to that section against temperatures of from 5 to 25 degrees above zero.

Fall Is Ill as U. S. Pushes Oil Inquiry

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special].—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and co-defendant with Harry F. Sinclair in the Teapot Dome conspiracy case, was ordered to his bed today following an attack of the grip. Dr. J. J. Kilroy, who is attending him, said his patient is suffering from congestion of the lungs.

Age Is Handicap.

While Dr. Kilroy did not describe Mr. Fall's condition as serious, he emphasized the necessity of precautions because of the advanced age of his patient.

According to H. G. Cluett, Mr. Fall's secretary, the attack is similar to that of last year, when the former secretary was stricken with pneumonia during the Fall-Doherty conspiracy trial.

Mr. Cluett said the former cabinet member had obtained a good rest during the day.

Resting Comfortably.

Dr. Kilroy reported his patient as resting more comfortably following a visit at the hotel this evening. He said, however, that even under the best conditions it will be several days before Mr. Fall will be able to leave his room.

We have to be very careful," Dr. Kilroy said, "because of an old organic condition which was disclosed during an examination of the patient today. Mr. Fall does not have pneumonia, but it should develop his condition would be very serious."

Refining company, who had to Europe rather than testify in the Teapot case.

After definite assurance had been received from Clark that he will appear early in the week, Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw, in charge of the grand jury's investigation, revealed that as even more intensive search than was made for Clark is now under way for the Burns agency executive.

This official, it is asserted, was in actual charge of many of the defenses who were assigned to inquire into the financial status of the Teapot jurors and it is reported that when the scandal broke Tuesday he asserted to friends "I'm shipping while there's time." Mr. Burkinshaw asserted that "unquestionably this official is the one whom the government needs."

Asks New Trial.

At the Pomerehne, former senator
from Ohio, appointed by President Coolidge with Owen J. Roberts to prosecute the oil fraud cases, appeared before Justice Siders this morning to move for a new trial of the Teapot Dome case on Jan. 16 and to file the government's petition for citation of Blackmer for perjury.

The proceedings against Blackmer are the first to be brought under the recently enacted Walsh act, which provides for the confinement of $100,000 worth of their property as the maximum penalty for recalcitrant witnesses who take refuge in foreign countries.

Early in the trial, which blew up Tuesday, Prosecutor Roberts asked the court to specially call for Blackmer from the beach, in order to provide the basis for the action taken today.

Nathan L. Miller, a former governor of New York, rose in the courtroom
and sought to explain Blackmer's absence
in Paris, but was halted by the court.

Promises Early Hearing.

Notice of the government's petition
is to be served on Miller in New York,
and in receiving the petition Justice Siders assured Mr. Pomerehne with considerable emphasis that "you will have no difficulty in getting an early hearing on that motion."

From Justice Siders' court, the home shifted to that of Chief Justice Walker I. McCoy, where Day had been brought in response to a request from the grand jury that he be required to answer their queries. Day was represented by Daniel T. Wright, a former justice of the District Supreme court.

With the grand jury ranged about the chief justice's bench, District Attorney Gordon declared that Day had placed himself in a "paradoxical position" by asserting in one breath that he "is guilty of no offense" and in another his fear that to answer any questions would incriminate him as a party to the alleged jury tampering.

Attorney Challenges Day.

When Attorney Wright asked if there was any doubt but that the questions asked by the grand jury sought to connect him with the alleged conspiracy Mr. Gordon countered with the challenge that if Day would publicly assert his fear that the answers would incriminate him, the grand jury would be instructed to forego further questioning.

"That's what I mean to say," declared Day.

As Day and his attorney were leaving the court house, they were notified by Assistant District Attorney Burkinshaw of the decision to secure a warrant for Day and Sinclair. Hot words passed between Wright and Burkinshaw for a few minutes until the former was reminded that Day was

Man's Heroism Saves 650 Lives.

Becket, Mass., Nov. 4.—(U.P.)—To the heroism of one of its residents this town of 650 inhabitants owes the fact that only one life was lost when a mountain reservoir burst early today and sent a torrent rushing down upon the village. The hero was William Ballou, owner of the reservoir. When the rain last night threatened to burst
the reservoir walls he went on guard and with the first indication that they were giving away drove his automobile through the village warning every one to flee. Virtually all heeded the warning and reached safety before the wall
of water struck the town.

Mrs. Gustine Carroll, the only victim, heard the warning but hesitated and before she could leave her home
the water struck it and she was swept

150 Made Homeless.

The rush of water swept away 25 residences and business places, made 150 persons homeless and caused at least $1,000,000 damage.

Frank Prentiss, 61, whose home was directly in the path of the flood,
when warned of the break in the reservoir, climbed to the second story as the water struck the building and carried it from its foundations. He clung to the house and rode down the stream until it swept by a tree. He caught a branch and swung from the house as the water carried the building along. The flood receded, almost

MILICENT IS NOT MARRIED, BUT MAY BE SOON, SHE SAYS

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Miss Millicent Rogers, daughter of Col.
Henry H. Rogers, Standard Oil millionaire, who recently divorced Count Lodwig Salza von Hoegstrassen, denied today reports that she secretly had married Arturo Fariñas Ramos, her Argentine fiancé. She admitted the wedding would take place shortly.

"There is nothing to the report,"
Miss Rogers said. "An announcement will be made when the marriage is to take place. This may be soon."

The former countess and her fiancé registered at the St. Regis hotel Thursday morning. Each had a suite on the third floor. Mr. Ramos and Miss Rogers were in seclusion, and had but few visitors. They left the hotel late today in the Rogers' limousine, their destination being the Rogers country home at Southampton, L. I.

Reports that Miss Rogers and Mr.
Ramos had married resulted through reservation of a cabin on the Grace liner Santa Elena, sailing for Valpa-raíso from Brooklyn next Thursday.
In the names of Mr. and Mrs. A. F.
Ramos.

as rapidly as it had arisen, and recovery came to his assistance as soon as the water had dropped away from the tree.

Nearly one quarter of the town's 650 residents were homeless. Industries wiped out by the flood employed about 300 persons.

Many Towns Isolated.

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—New Hampshire tonight is in the grip of the worst flood in its history, with scores of towns and villages cut off from the outside world, with several lives reported lost, and with damage to railroads, highways, power lines, telephone circuits, manufacturing plants, and private homes running into the millions.

The Connecticut river, higher than ever in history, has wiped out several bridges. The Pemigewasset river inundated its valley, and it and the Win-nesaukee river, at flood heights, are joining the Merrimack at Franklin and pouring water southward in the direction of Manchester, Nashua, and Lowell, raising the Amoskeag lake at the rate of four inches an hour.

5,000 Persons Marooned.

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 4.—[U.P.]—
The largest dam in the state, at Essex Junction, a few miles from here, was on the verge of breaking late tonight and flooding the town of Winouki just below it. Winouki's population of 5,000 was marooned tonight when the bridge connecting the town with Burlington fell before the rushing waters of the Winouki river.

Auto Accidents Claim Three Lives; Toll Raised to 787

Three deaths yesterday as a result of automobile accidents raised the toll in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 787.

George Blow, 70 years old, 2204
North Crawford avenue, died from a fractured skull received Monday when he was struck at Armitage and Grand avenues by a car driven by Martin Kustensen, 2157 Armitage avenue.
Edward Scragg, 55 years old, 1225
North Wells street, died after being struck at Lawrence avenue and Broadway by a truck driven by George Schwartz of Niles Center.

Killed in Front of Home.

Nels Anderson, 74, of 2515 Elston avenue, was killed in front of his home
when struck by an automobile driven by William Goldstein, 3734 Oldings street. Goldstein was held for the inquest today.

Four passengers on a westbound
Chicago Motor Coach company bus were injured last night when the bus was struck by a Racine avenue street car at Jackson boulevard. The injured, who were given first aid by a nearby physician, are: William Kats, 15, of 2222 Crystal street; Miss Chelene Weinbauer, 15, of 134 South Hamlin avenue; Mrs. Edna Hoffman, 25, of 5512

Glady's avenue; and Miss Helen Nathan, 15, of 2559 West Adams street.

Says Troley Hit Bus.

William McKenna, 4533 Wilcox
street, driver of the bus, told the police that the rear of the bus was struck by the street car as he was driving over the rails.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dougherty, 24 years old, wheeling her baby in a carriage,
was struck in front of her home, 4717
South Union avenue, by an automobile that bounded over the curb onto the sidewalk after narrowly averting
a collision with a truck. The mother was seriously hurt, while the baby escaped injury. Police charged the motorist, Frank M. Lacy, 57 years old, 4361 South Halsted street, with driving while intoxicated.

Washington, which should have arrived here early this morning, did not reach its berth until 8 o'clock. The Italian liner Dante Alighieri likewise arrived
nearly a half day late.

$1,000,000 LOSS IN QUEBEC.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Damage caused by flood waters
in the eastern townships of Quebec province will total well over $1,000,000.

"I am not at all in agreement with those of the people and as you are expending the taxpayers' money against the will of the people as expressed at the polls, the honest thing for you to do is to resign."

While the mayor's major offensive against the redcoats entrenched in the public library was in progress yesterday, Angus Roy Shannon, attorney for Supt. McAndrew, launched a counter attack.

"The inexcusable procrastination," Mr. Shannon said, "on the part of the mayor's adherents is due to a desire to further the 'America First' association, a political organization. The demand of the board's attorneys that Supt. McAndrew be present at every session is an absurd and ridiculous subterfuge. Each hearing thus far has produced political propaganda but nothing that bears on the charge of insubordination on which McAndrew is supposed to be tried by the board."

Coach Ready for Them.

President J. Lewis Coath of the school board yesterday was aroused by the report that the department of superintendence of the National Education association was to investigate the school situation in Chicago.

"Investigators are my meat," Mr. Coath said. "The best thing Jack Coath does is investigate investigators. If those fellows from the N. E.

"I was amazed to find that this booklet was still part of the Chicago library official reading course—granted that, even though the Canadian president no longer ruled the American Library association, this pro-British, un-American propaganda takes on a national aspect, and as the smaller cities usually follow the lead of the big cities, that is why a greater responsibility rests upon the library officials of the big city."

Amazed, Mayor Declares.

"In saying you do not sponsor these pamphlets you state what is not true. You sell them in the public library. You might as well say that the merchant is not a sponsor for the goods he sells."

"Not only do you sell and circulate the pamphlets of these reading courses, but at taxpayers' expense you furnish 'special personal service' and 'expert aid' to those desiring to follow these courses, which courses in instances have been marked out by the un-American propagandists."

Replying to the library trustees' charges that the passages from Gibbons' pamphlet were quoted incorrectly in the mayor's press release, he said: "I am not at all in agreement with those of the people and as you are expending the taxpayers' money against the will of the people as expressed at the polls, the honest thing for you to do is to resign."

U. of Michigan Grads Cheer
McAndrew, Laugh at Mayor

Five hundred University of Michigan alumni gathered last night in the Hotel Stevens for a few minutes that there was a football pep meeting and devoted themselves to cheering for William McAndrew, suspended superintendent of Chicago schools, and to guffaws at sallies about Mayor Thompson's war on King George III.

President Clarence Cook Little, who came from Ann Arbor with his institution's football team, took the lead in the merry spoofing of the mayor.

Little Leads the Spoofing.

"I wish to deny a rumor that Michigan has offered a chair of literary criticism to Prof. U. J. Sport Hermann," he said. "Likewise, it is untrue that there will be a summer school at Ann Arbor next year for teaching mayors 'America First'."

The $10 fee for Mayor Thompson's course isn't enough for admittance to our summer classes."

The cheers for Supt. McAndrew came when he crossed the banquet hall after the alumni and the speakers had taken their seats. So prolonged were the yells for him, with the audience all standing, that he smiled, bowed and lifted his hand as a mute signal for the din to cease.

"Crown" Jest Gets a Laugh.

When former Judge Charles S. Cutting, the toastmaster, announced that among the distinguished guests there was a "supporter of the British crown," Supt. McAndrew laughed and the other alumni cheered.

President Little, however, devoted only a short part of his speech to Chicago's book and school war. He defended football as a college sport, told how and why Michigan had limited students in the use of automobiles, and urged that Illinoisans persist in an effort to show their legislators what great work their state university is doing.

Says Athletics Help School.

"Recently I heard that universities charging admission to football games, and then utilizing the receipts were dabbling in semi-professional business," he said. "I agree with that. We are using the money derived from our athletic performances for the betterment of the university and the physical development of our men and women. I hope that some of the devoted eastern schools which would have free admission to football have, since voicing such opinions, raised the price of admission to their own games."

According to President Little, the first ruling on student cars, limiting them to seniors and juniors, was a failure because only 500 students took it seriously. Now, he said, only those who can convince the faculty that they have need of automobiles for business purposes can have them and the rule works well.

Yest Talks About Coaches.

Fielding H. Yest, former coach of the Wolverine eleven, and now athletic director at Michigan, asserted that coaches were seldom, if ever, overpaid.

"A coach," he said, "would gladly change places with members of the faculty who have smaller salaries, because the places are more certain to last. Most people judge the ability of a coach by the marks on the score board, but few realize the problems he has."

The Michigan Alumni association will give a luncheon and reception at the Stevens before the Chicago-Michigan game today. President Little will be present. Miss Ruth Roosevelt is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

ATHENS, Nov. 4.—The former Miss Allison Roebeling of New York, an heir-ess of the Roebeling fortune, is involved in a scandal which developed today with the report that her husband, Baron Joseph Van Der Elst, first secretary of the Belgian legation, was caught smuggling antiquities out of the country.

It was declared that Baron Van Der Elst was discovered leaving for Vienna with three valises containing Greek busts and ancient musical tablets wrapped in silk. The objects, it is believed, came from Delphi and Mycenae, to which the baroness recently made frequent excursions. The Greek government has entered a protest against this abuse of diplomatic privileges to the Belgian government.

WERE WED IN WASHINGTON.

The marriage of the American girl, the daughter of Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, to Baron Van Der Elst, who was second secretary of the Belgian embassy at Washington, took place in that city on Feb. 20. It was solemnized at St. Matthew's Roman Catholic church by Msgr. Thomas Shannon of Chicago. The baroness' father was the late Karl G. Roebeling, engineer of the Trenton bridge, and she is a great-granddaughter of John A. Roebeling, who built the Brooklyn bridge and the suspension bridge at Niagara Falls.

The baron is a son of Baron Leon Van Der Elst, who was one of the twelve advisers of King Albert, who decreed that their country would resist the march of the Germans through Belgium at the beginning of the world war.

Denies Northcliffe Had Interest in U. S. Papers.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Viscount Rothermere, brother of the late Lord Northcliffe, said today: "In reference to statements made in the inquiry being held by Mayor Thompson of Chicago, Lord Northcliffe never at any time had any financial interest in any newspaper or publishing house in the United States. Statements to the contrary are absolutely false."

ROUMANIA WANTS NO REVOLT, SAYS BRATIANO RIVAL

Opposes Civil War to Put Carol on Throne.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
BUCHAREST, Roumania, Nov. 4.—Civil war in Roumania over the question of former Crown Prince Carol's accession to the throne, or some other cause, is impossible.
This statement was made today by Julia Maniu, leader of the national peasant party, which has intensified its political campaign to force Premier John Bratiano to resign and compel the regency to call for a new election. This declaration from M. Maniu carries weight not only because he is the logical successor to B. Bratiano, but without help from him, M. Bratiano is not sufficiently powerful to create disturbances in the country.
"We never would tolerate a revolution, although we are governed by a dictator," M. Maniu said, "for Roumania, surrounded by enemies, a revolution would be disastrous, and no one having the interests of the country at heart would start a revolution or agitate questions that might precipitate a revolution."
"I do not need revolution,"

"I represent the sentiment of the entire country, and we do not need a revolution to accomplish our end, which is the return of the legal government. Our battle is purely one of public sentiment, carried on by propaganda and publicity. We are certain public opinion is sufficiently overwhelming to force M. Bratiano to resign and give the people the right to express themselves on the government they desire."
M. Maniu declared Premier Bratiano alone is to blame for raising the question of Prince Carol in parliament last week, following the arrest of Undersecretary Manolescu.
"I, myself, have pointed out that this is no time to raise the question, but Premier Bratiano, by the arrest showed his own weakness," M. Maniu explained. "If I was Premier under similar circumstances I should also have made the arrest, but I would have done it legally and have had the court issue a warrant. M. Bratiano erred in making the arrest political, which has made his position before parliament and the country ridiculous. Political arrests must be explained, and in so doing he raised a question that should have remained dormant."

Denies He's a Carolist.
The question of Prince Carol is simple. That he resigned, there is no question, and as long as he does not return to Roumania, claiming himself to be king, there is no way any one could espouse his cause.

"His leadership of the party leaders is reiterating what the newspapers have published, that if the Roumanian people want him back, he will come. This does not give the Carolists a leg to stand on. If Prince Carol came to Roumania and said he was king, that would be another question. The action of M. Bratiano is somewhat hysterical. We are not Carolists. We are democratic and only intend that the will and sentiment of the people be carried out. We intend to settle the question for all time, but that does not mean we are recalling Prince Carol."

Will Not Contemplate Coup.
M. Maniu was asked if there was any danger that the congress of the national peasant party at Alba Julia, Nov. 29, might turn into a demonstration in favor of Prince Carol in order to embarrass the government. M. Maniu replied, "No our party is more than eighty years old. I am its seventh president. We are well disciplined, so that only what we choose to happen will happen."

"Supposing an agent provocateur called 'Vive, Carol!'"
"We would beat him up," M. Maniu replied.

DR. JOSEPH STOLZ TO PREACH HIS FAREWELL SERMON THIS MORNING

Dr. Joseph Stolz, dean of Chicago rabbis of the Reformed faith, after more than 40 years of service in this city, this morning will preach his farewell sermon at the Temple Israel, Hyde Park boulevard and Greenwood avenue. He will speak at 10:30 on the subject "Be Thou a Blessing."

Dr. Stolz was elected rabbi for life by the congregation fifteen years ago, but after completing his term, he requested release and was elected rabbi emeritus. He lives at 5919 Drexel boulevard and expects to devote himself to literary and educational work. Dr. Stolz is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and the Hebrew Union college. He served three years as rabbi in Little Rock, Ark., and came to Chicago in 1887.

He has held practically every position in the gift of his fellow rabbis, as president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, president of the Chicago Rabbinical association and of the Hebrew Union college alumni. He is at present vice president of the Chicago Liberal Ministers' association. He has led in the building of two temples, has served two terms on the board of education and spoken frequently before civic and church organizations.

"Do Not Need Revolution."

YOUTH ADMITS BALLOT FRAUD; GETS JAIL TERM

Frank Restis, 21 years old, 1046 North Franklin street, pleaded guilty yesterday before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to committing fraud in the June 4 election while serving as an official in the 16th precinct of the 42d ward.

The defendant's story was that of a youth inexperienced in ballot handling being led blindly into election corruption by veteran politicians. However, Judge Jarecki said he was not convinced the young man had told all he knew, and a sentence of six months in the county jail was imposed.

Restis said he took the job as an election judge because he was out of work and needed the $8 pay. He was recommended for the position by his brother, William Restis, involved in former ballot frauds but never apprehended.

Co-workers at the polls included John Sherry and Robert White, active in the precinct politics for many years and recently sentenced by Judge Jarecki for fraud. Restis said he acted on White's direction in marking about 150 ballots for electors who had not visited the polls.

"White and Sherry told me, 'That's all right; we always do this; nothing is ever done about it,'" Restis testified.

Another witness was Morris White, 1138 South Sacramento boulevard, a peddler who declared that Lewis, two days before the murder, came to him and ordered him to join the junkman's union. When he refused, Lewis struck him, blacking his eyes and breaking his nose, he testified.

Attorney Short explained the defense theory in his opening arguments. Lewis was a sick man who had left his bed only two days before the murder, he declared. Newman was the leader of a faction opposed to Lewis and had ordered that Lewis be beaten up the day of the murder. The shot which killed Braverman came from a building across the street, he declared, and was meant for Lewis.

I'LL BUILD TUBE IF CITY LETS ME, FAHERTY VOWS

22d St. to North Avenue
First, He Says.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Chicago, Nov. 4.—Chicago's subway delegation reached here this morning on the last lap of a two-month tour studying the great underground systems of Europe.
They will begin their official inspection of London's network of subways, the most extensive in Europe, at 9:30 a. m. Monday, Michael J. Faherty, chairman of the delegation, told the Tribune this afternoon that it will probably result in the most important observations of the entire tour.
From his brief conference with the subway officials this afternoon, as well as his slight observations of the subways, I can see that many of the best ideas are to be obtained from the "system," Mr. Faherty said. "The company officials already have offered every possible cooperation in order for us to make the fullest observation of all the surface as well as underground traffic. We hope to complete our survey soon, ending about Nov. 12."

Grews T. F. O'Connor.

A cordial and unexpected touch to the Chicagoans' arrival occurred in the lobby of the Savoy hotel this morning two hours after their arrival, when a gray haired man made his way through the crowd and Mr. Faherty delightedly stepped to his feet to greet a welcome to his old friend, T. F. O'Connor, veteran member of parliament, who was bringing an invitation to dinner tonight. "Old 'Tay Tay' has been twiddled as he said about Chicago, which he visited last year. He then turned to the Tribune correspondent, remarking:

"Chicago? He is Chicago," and he indicated Mr. Faherty's.

The hearty reunion included Dr. John Killean, medical member of the delegation, who said Chicago's subway would be "100 per cent busproof."

"I'll put it across."

"If they will give me a chance I will put it across," Mr. Faherty said in referring to Chicago's subway construction. "My plan is immediately to construct four miles of subway from 22d street to North avenue, which will show the taxpayers what they are getting for their money. It will be a model structure which will show them the possibilities and make them demand the carrying out of the full plan. Whether Thompson or anybody else is mayor, they will demand a subway."

"My plan for lower street level subways will remove all traffic from the streets except automobiles, as well as open a new field of sub-level shopping."

Mr. Faherty said the present remarkable operation of seventy-two elevated trains through the loop hourly already has won the admiration of Europe.

INDIANAPOLIS JUDGE DECLINES TO TRY G.O.P. LEADER AND JACKSON

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Judge James A. Collins of the Criminal court, by his own motion today ruled himself ineligible to sit in the bribery trial of Gov. Ed Jackson, the governor's former law partner, Robert I. Marsh and County Republican Chairman George Coffin. Therefore a motion to quash indictments is continued until Monday, when a special judge will be chosen.

In previous cases growing out of three grand juries investigating alleged wholesale political corruption in Indiana, motions for a special judge have been filed by the defendants. This time, however, Collins has pointed out that his friendship for Coffin, his political sponsor, renders him ineligible to preside.

Collins was elected by the same Klan-Republican group which elected Jackson and former Mayor John Duval, now under thirty days sentence for corrupt prosecution practices. Jackson, Marsh and Coffin will be arraigned Monday charged with conspiracy to bribe Warren T. McCray, then governor, with $10,000 and immunity for McCray from prosecution in state courts if McCray would fill the county prosecutor's office here according to their dictates. McCray will be the principal state witness.

MOBILIZE "LAW ENFORCERS" IN COLORADO STRIKE

Denver, Colo., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A state law enforcement department was formed today by Gov. W. H. Adams in the hope that state officers could cope with the strike situation in the Colorado coal fields and make it unnecessary to mobilize the national guard.

The sudden move of the chief executive was determined upon after several instances of picketing at coal mines had been reported to him today. The new organization is headed by Louis N. Scherf, former regular army captain. He immediately recruited fifteen ex-service men for the organization, and within an hour after they had been sworn in, the new officers were on their way to Walsenburg. They were armed and carried three riot guns.

A strikers' demonstration was held near the Walsenburg mine of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company this morning. Twenty-five armed mine guards kept the demonstrators off the company property. During the progress of the meeting Sheriff Capps and two deputies arrested three of the I. W. W. leaders on warrants charging them with picketing and intimidation.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Four of the nine members of the Indianapolis city council were indicted by the county grand jury today. The jury—the third to investigate alleged wholesale political corruption in Indiana—has not completed its work.

Those indicted are Walter R. Dorsett, Byron J. Moore, Willard W. Ferguson and Otis B. Bartholomew. They are charged in a joint indictment with accepting bribes in connection with city zoning permits. Two other indictments charge Moore with taking a $500 bribe for approving a city apartment purchase and accepting city appointments for two men in return for influencing the council to vote against Duval's impeachment.

Same Jury Indicted Duval.
The same grand jury this summer indicted John Duval, then Indianapolis mayor; Gov. Ed Jackson, County Republican Chairman George Coffin, and Robert I. Marsh, Jackson's former law partner. The Marion county prosecutor has also filed charges against Will-

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

PERMITS SHOW BUILDING SLUMP DURING OCTOBER

Building permits issued during the month of October dropped nearly fifty per cent in value as compared to those issued during October, 1926, reports from the city building department yesterday revealed.

During October last year 1,221 permits totaling $48,459,800 were issued, while this year only 517, totaling $28,678,800 were recorded. From Jan. 1 to Oct. 31 the grand total was 10,517 permits and $392,395,400, as compared to 15,338 permits and $314,519,500 last year.

Despite the slump, Edward H. Nord, chief plan examiner, who compiled the reports, predicted that this year's final total will be as great as that for 1926. Permits issued for several large buildings made October, 1926, an abnormal month, he explained, while the permits this October were about normal.

Report Another Has Resigned.
O. Ray Abernethy, a Republican councilman, it is understood, has placed his resignation in the hands of the grand jury and will appear as chief witness against his accused colleagues.

Ex-Mayor Duval was a witness before the grand jury on three occasions this week. Several of his former aids also testified. Duval is known to be bitter toward the city council, feeling that a coalition of his enemies forced his resignation as mayor.

NEW TRIAL GIVEN
POLICE CHIEF IN
EDITOR'S SLAYING

Youngstown, O., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A. Lengel, for almost 30 years chief of Canton's police department, sentenced to life imprisonment on a first degree murder charge in connection with the killing July 14, 1926, of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, today was granted a new trial by the Court of Appeals.

The court held there was insufficient evidence to sustain the verdict, that the trial court erred in its charge, that incompetent testimony was introduced and that one of the women jurors had remarked previously to her acceptance as a juror she thought Lengel guilty.

Lengel's attorneys tonight planned to go before the Canton court Monday and ask that Lengel be admitted to bond and released from the Ohio penitentiary.

Lengel's attorneys said they would ask for a change of venue.

LINKS OHIO KLAN, DRY LEAGUE IN 'FRAME' CHARGES

State Senator Broadens His Accusations.

Columbus, O., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—State Senator Paul M. Herbert, who has announced that he will demand legislative investigation of the Anti-Saloon league and the state prohibition department today disclosed some of the questions he will raise at the inquiry.

"The Anti-Saloon league, the Ku Klux Klan, and the prohibition department all over the state are linked together to prevent the proper enforcement of the law," he said. "Judges, prohibition agents and other officials are either members of one of the organizations or are reached by some member. If the individual refuses to act as the Klan, Anti-Saloon league, or the dry officers wish, liquor is planted on his premises and the raid is pulled off, the 'framed' man being convicted and sentenced."

Says He Has Proof.
"I am ready at any time to appear before any body of investigators and prove the charges I have made," he said. In a letter to B. F. McDonald, chief Ohio state prohibition officer, Herbert charged that D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon of Indiana, now in the Indiana penitentiary, was arrested in the Dasher hotel here three years ago after creating a disturbance in a liquor party, and through his friendship with one Stephens, then mayor of Newark, O., and through his friendship with McDonald, whose residence originally was in Newark, succeeded in having charges dropped.

"During your term in office," the letter says, "a raid was made upon a hotel room in Columbus on a Saturday night and two or three men were found and a dozen bottles of liquor were seized. One of those men was D. C. Stephenson. Hotel officials called the police, who arrested the men on charges of creating a disturbance and also for possession of liquor. They were taken to police court and arraigned. But before they were taken to trial the charges were mysteriously dropped."

Makes 'Fixing' Charge.
"I desire to ask you specifically, is it not true that you, together with the mayor of Newark, 'fixed' this case?" Before answering this question, I want to call to your attention that there is now in existence in Indiana the record of the trial of Stephenson preceding his conviction for murder and sentence to life imprisonment." Herbert claims he can prove that liquor for this party was furnished by dry officers from the confiscated supply in the safe of that department. Replying to McDonald's plea for ignorance of conditions which Herbert said exist in the department, the letter said: "If you will assure the inspectors of your department that they will not be discharged for telling the truth and let me question them, I will prove that you had personal knowledge of many of these abuses and told them to 'keep silent as long as you were in the department.'"

Calls Charge Untrue.
"Senator Herbert's implication in regard to the Stephenson affair is absolutely untrue," State Prohibition McDonald said tonight. "The state officers had nothing to do with the raid and were in no way connected with the raid, nor did I intercede for Stephenson."

HANGS SELF IN BASEMENT.
Antonio Piletera, 34, of 255 West 33d street, a laborer, hanged himself from a beam in the basement of the Erie railroad freight house at 14th and Clark streets yesterday.

CONGRESS JOKER HITS DRY LAW, JUDGE ASSERTS

Exempts Farmers and Drink Buyers.

Congress is the greatest offender of the eighteenth amendment, Judge Joseph E. David told the Chicago Bar association at the weekly luncheon yesterday in an address on "The Eighteenth Amendment—Enforce It or Repeal It."

"I stand for observance of law," the judge said. "But in this I do not favor a camouflage or half baked observance. I stand for the eighteenth amendment in the letter or spirit with which it was written or its absolute repeal."

It's Not Self-Enforcing.
"There has been no honest effort made to carry the amendment into effect. Congress is the principal nullification of the amendment. The amendment is not self-executing. In Illinois and New York the act is a dead letter. It is just as legal here to have intoxicating liquor as to drive an automobile. It is not so in Indiana or Georgia."

"I stand for this slogan—every man a drink or no man a drink. The manufacture or sale is prohibited by the amendment. Did congress say so? No. The Volstead act would never have been passed except for the joker in it. That was for the sake of the farmer. He is a prohibitionist—for the other fellow. He makes all he wants for his own use."

They have left out the word 'buy.' They punish every one that sells, but no one that buys. Section 4 is the joker. The penalties provided do not apply to the manufacture of nonintoxicating cider or fruit juices for use in the home. Go home tonight and make all the liquor you want from fruit juices. It is no crime to buy liquor in this state.

Would Imprison Buyers.
"Punish the man who buys—give immunity to the man who sells. Then you will make this country absolutely dry. Send the man who buys to the penitentiary. That is carrying into effect the eighteenth amendment. We fellows who like a drink and who want law observance, let's rally around that standard."

"Let congress pass a law that all liquor held for beverage purposes is contraband, just as Georgia did. The United States Supreme court has held that constitutional. Make every one that has it surrender it to the government and the Anti-Saloon league will go out of business."

DRY LEAGUE PLEA FOR FUNDS CALLS ITS CAUSE HOLY

Seeks Cash for Primary Fight on Wets.

BY PARKE BROWN.
Evangelistic phraseology was sprinkled through an appeal for money for the Anti-Saloon league of Illinois that became public yesterday.

Although the political organizations are trying merely to keep their powder dry and their platforms wet until they know what the courts say about the new primary law, the league is broadcasting a call for funds for the primary battle.

Mimeographed letters sent out by Dr. George B. Sanford, state superintendent of the league, to possible contributors refer to "the holy cause," "the Christian citizenship," and "the laws of God."

Turns to 'Christian Friends.'
Supt. Sanford says that the state senators who last spring defeated the bill to repeal the state prohibition law "stood like a rock among the breakers."

Two Things to Do, He Says.
"Please do two things at this moment. First, send in now the largest possible amount to help supply the league with the needed funds for the struggle. A check or subscription payable before the primary election. To do both would be best."

"Second, please take the other card and obtain a subscription from some friend who thinks now contributing to this work. By so doing you will help the work and help your friends by interesting them actively in this holy cause."

"You will also assist in marshalling the entire Christian citizenship of our state and greatly strengthen us whom you have sent out to lead in defeating this liquor Goliath who impudently defies the laws of both God and man."

POLICE CAPTAIN'S SON IS INDICTED IN LIQUOR CASE

One hundred persons were named in forty-seven indictments returned yesterday before Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe by the October federal grand jury. The indictments allege various violations of federal laws.

Robert Gallery, son of Police Captain Michael Gallery, and Grover Heidegger, former policeman attached to the Sumnerdale station, grandson of the late Police Inspector Max Heidegger, were indicted with three others for violation of the prohibition laws. Harry, Harold and Emil Hoffmann and three others were indicted in connection with a raid on a furniture warehouse at 375 West Ontario street in which one of the largest distilleries ever seized was found.

A new indictment was returned against John P. O'Connell and Peter Hein, former employees of the South Side Trust and Savings bank, who embezzled more than $200,000 of the bank funds. Henry Rust and William Morgan, in whose alleged gambling places they lost the money were named with them. Judge Cliffe recently sustained a demurrer to the first indictment on technical defects.

HELD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE.
John Hawley, 55, of 3348 Wall street, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Immenhausen on the charge of forging and cashing worthless checks for a total of $3,800.

CUT ALCOHOL OUTPUT 10,000,000 GALLONS TO PLUG BOOTLEG LEAK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Ten million gallons less alcohol will be manufactured in the United States next year than this year as the result of investigations disclosing that at least that amount was diverted to the bootleg market during the last twelve months. Next year's production will be 65,000,000 gallons, while this year's was 75,000,000.

Commissioner of Prohibition Dorman announced that a voluntary agreement had been reached with the alcohol advisory council to effect the reduction. Both Dr. Dorman and Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of dry law enforcement, agreed that District Administrator Herbert A. Biltmore is justified in employing J. Randolph Brewer, indicted dry agent, in spite of the fact that he is suspended from active duty.

The fact that Brewer is charged with the murder of an old man who attempted to prevent a squad of dry agents from intruding on his premises without a search warrant was apparently not regarded as affording sufficient reason for laying Brewer off pending trial.

DETROIT'S BITTER ELECTION FIGHT GETS INTO COURT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—[AP.]—Detroit's bitterly fought mayoralty campaign found its way into the courts with the conviction and sentencing of an alleged fraudulent registrant. This was followed by a threat of injunction proceedings to halt the election commission proceeding with an investigation coincident with revelations of conditions of the Nov. 5 election.

Boyd Smith, an employee of the department of public works, was given the maximum penalty of 90 days imprisonment and a fine of $500 by Judge Charles Bowler of Recorder's court when found guilty of registering fraudulently.

In passing sentence, Judge Bowler said: "This case should challenge the attention of every decent and respectable citizen in the city to show the extent to which unscrupulous politicians will go to accomplish their ends."

START FRAMING NEW TAX SLASH BILL ON NOV. 14

Committee Hearings End
Next Thursday.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Actual framing of the new tax reduction bill will be commenced by the House Ways and Means committee on Monday, Nov. 14, its members declared today.

Hearings now in progress will be continued next Thursday, and the committee on internal revenue reduction will meet on Friday and Saturday. The ways and means committee will start work in executive session on the following Monday. This will allow three weeks in which to prepare a bill before congress convenes.

The recommendations of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will form the basis for the measure. The proposed program for a maximum reduction of $25,000,000, it was indicated today at the White House, has the backing of President Coolidge. It was stated that the President would not object to a reduction of $25,000,000.

Ask Greater Reduction.
Mellon plan the committee will have before it the recommendations of numerous trade associations for a greater reduction in the corporation tax than proposed by the treasury. It also will have the proposals of various groups for the reduction of miscellaneous taxes, which Mr. Mellon would retain.

Recommendations for changes in administrative provisions of the tax law will be given attention of the ways and means committee at today's hearing.

NEW BOYCOTT OF BRITISH GOODS OPENS IN CHINA

[Chicago Tribune From Service.]
SHANGHAI, Nov. 4.—The renewal of the anti-British boycott and the shipping strike in Canton, combined with the rapid return of the radical Kuomintang elements to Canton causes the belief here that the radical left wing of this party soon again will become the dominant element in the Chinese nationalist movement.

Reports from British sources at Hongkong say uniformed strike pickets in Canton are again seizing British merchandise and searching incoming passengers.

Officials of the Nanking government are seriously concerned, due to the departure of members of the central executive committee for Canton. They fear a majority of the influential members will make their homes at Canton, which will again become the capital of Chinese nationalism.

MANY TOWNS ON COAST SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKES

Railroad Traffic Halted
in California.

Los Angeles, Nov. 4.—[AP.]—A series of moderately heavy earthquakes shook along the central California coast today halted railway traffic over the Southern Pacific railroad north of Santa Barbara and shook the inland town of Santa Maria more severely than any earth disturbance since 1904.

The earth tremors continued during the day. Seismographs at Santa Clara, Cal., recorded tremors at 12:03 p. m., although no dikes reported they felt these shocks. The main disturbances occurred after 8 a. m.

The shocks apparently were heaviest in the vicinity of Honda, a rockbound promontory 35 miles north of Santa Barbara. It was here the Southern Pacific tracks were thrown out of alignment. Trains were delayed for some hours.

Ships at sea were rocked. The Mackay radio stations reported. The steamer Los Angeles radioed two shocks were felt after 12 noon. The zone of disturbance apparently extended to a point north of San Luis Obispo. Reports from that town said the shocks were slight and caused no damage. A quake was felt at Santa Barbara but no reports of damage were made. Ventura, 40 miles south of Santa Barbara, also had a light quake of more than half a minute's duration.

The southernmost point of the disturbance is believed to have been in the Los Angeles sector.

PROMISE TO PAY NUNGESSER-COLL FAMILIES $58,500

French Explain Delays;
Ruth Starts Home Today

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright: 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, Nov. 4.—The 1,500,000 franc (about $38,500) raised in New York and Paris for the families of Capt. Charles Nungesser and Francois Coll, the ill-fated trans-Atlantic flyers, but never paid, will be given over "very soon," the treasurer of the Paris committee promised tonight in the absence of Dudley Field Malone, in whose name the money was deposited.
The treasurer said the committee had not thought it wise to give such a big sum to the French women, because they would be victims of investment sharks.
A new scandal was raised tonight over the fund of 1,000,000 francs (about $250,000) raised in the Roxy theater in New York recently for the families of the French flyers. The money, it was said, was to have been presented by Mayor James Walker during his visit to Paris, but he did not turn it over, according to reports.

Ruth Starts Home Today.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Ruth Elder and Capt. George W. Haldeman, who left New York in their trans-Atlantic airplane the American Girl more than three weeks ago, will start back for home tomorrow morning.

The flyers will take the boat train at 10:44 a. m. for Cherbourg, and will embark on the steamship Aquitania.

Ruth and Capt. Haldeman were guests at a reception by the American Women's club this afternoon.

Reward Flyers' Rescuers.

Baytown, Tex., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Capt. T. Goos, master of the Dutch steamer Parendrecht, today received $1,000 given by Wheeling, W. Va., citizens in gratitude for the rescue of Ruth Elder, American girl aviator, and Capt. George Haldeman, her co-pilot, near the Azores on Oct. 12.

He said he would take it as a token, not a reward, and would donate his share of it to a Dutch fund for the relief of seamen's widows and orphans.

Plane Flies to Azores.

HOTA, Fayal Island, Azores, Nov. 4.—(U. P.)—Visibility was so bad during the flight of the Heinkel plane D-129 from Lisbon to Horta today that it was forced to fly only nine feet above the ocean. Horta, Meix, pilot of the plane, which is bound for New York, said two French steamers refused to give their position, while a British steamer later gave the information immediately.

Marines Launch Air War to Crush Nicaraguan Rebels

MANAGUA, Nov. 4.—(U. P.)—With the arrival of the dry season, bombing and transportation planes will be used to augment the forces of United States marines and Nicaraguan guards in a combined drive to exterminate the rebels.

Almost daily skirmishes are reported between the joint patrols of marines and guards and the rebel followers of Sandino and Salgado.

Aided by planes the marines are sending out patrols daily to obtain definite news concerning the two missing American aviators believed to have been shot down a month ago by rebels. These patrols, however, have been meeting strong forces of rebels, who have fought the Americans doggedly. Only after they suffer heavy losses, according to word reaching Managua, do the rebels retire.

Although it was at first reported that the rebels numbered only a handful, latest estimates indicate that about 1,000 armed men are operating under several rebel leaders. Sandino has lost his prestige as a powerful rebel leader because of his recent defeat at Ocotal.

Owing to the rugged nature of the northern district in which the rebels fled to Mexico.

have entrenched themselves the task of clearing the country has been extremely difficult.

While the marine patrols were searching for the missing aviators, they encountered a band of rebels. Under command of Lieut. Chappel of the Marine corps, the joint marine and guard patrol routed them, killing or wounding 60.

The American aviators have not been heard from since they were reported shot down. According to one unconfirmed report they had taken shelter in a deserted house on a hill where their plane was shot down, and had fought desperately against an attacking rebel band.

Authorizes 2 1-2% Dividend on Defunct Bank Claims
John W. O'Leary, receiver of the Michigan Avenue Trust company, was authorized yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan to pay depositors of the defunct bank a dividend of 2 1-2 per cent on their general allowed claims, which will raise the total dividend paid to 4 1-2 per cent of allowed claims, or $1,250,000. The bank failed several years ago through the defalcations of its president, Warren G. Spurgin, who northern district in which the rebels fled to Mexico.

SPAIN LIFTS BAN AGAINST MOVIES OF U. S. COMPANY

(Copyright: 1927: By The New York Times.)
PARIS, Nov. 4.—American motion picture companies are stirred by the rebuke just administered by the Spanish government to one of the largest producing concerns in the United States and generally to so-called thoughtless methods at Hollywood.

The rebuke took the form of an order barring all Metro-Goldwyn films from Spain and her colonies as a protest against the showing in various capitals of Europe the motion picture called "Valencia," in which it is contended Spanish people were "subjected to great embarrassment and indignity."

It was only after the personal intervention of Ambassador Hammond and the active presence in Madrid of George Gandy, European trade commissioner from the United States department of commerce, that Primo de Rivera, Spanish dictator, agreed to withdraw the ban, effective since Oct. 15.

Will Other Nations Follow?

This is the first time a European government has gone to this length to show its disapproval of film methods, and the question arises as to whether other nations will follow Spain's example. Unbiased observers admitted "Valencia" contained unfortunate scenes likely to provoke the resentment of a nation devoted to its traditions and customs.

What Spain objected to more than anything else was the lengthy section depicting the governor of Barcelona as a profligate official. One scene especially offensive to Spanish taste showed the governor drunk, chasing women around the room, later to be knocked down by an enlisted man in the Spanish navy, presumably for his conduct toward the women in the scene.

Threatens Permanent Ban.
In withdrawing the ban, Primo de Rivera informed the American embassy the next time a film of this character came to the attention of the Spanish government the severest action would result—namely a permanent ban on the films of the guilty company.

In the opinion of Americans familiar with the Spanish film market, the action doesn't mean there is any antagonism against American films. On the contrary, American pictures find a ready market in Spain and control the field. King Alfonso frequently commands certain popular successes to be shown in the royal palace.

The film first came to the attention of the Spanish government when Spanish ambassadors from several European capitals wired protests to Madrid against it. On Oct. 15, a decree barring all Metro-Goldwyn films was issued.

The situation found exhibitors unprepared and many theaters had to close their doors for lack of pictures.

Soldiers Face Court Martial for Attack on Motorist

Four soldiers at Fort Sheridan, members of company G of the 2d infantry, last night faced court martial on a charge of assaulting Edward Uhler of Winnetka after he had taken them into his automobile on Sheridan road in Winnetka Thursday night when they asked him for a ride. The four are Herman Stenberg, John Chanko, Edward Adcox and Norman Staples.

BOOKS

Sandburg's 'Lincoln' to Be Put in One Volume for Club
One of the most startling announcements about books to be made for some time is that the Book of the Month club has chosen for its December book Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln." It is not startling that they should choose one of the great biographies ever written in America, but that they should select a book more than a year old and one which sells for $10.

The publishers are making a new edition for them, however, which brings to every one the benefit of their choice. With a sale of 46,000 copies assured by the Book of the Month club, they will print 70,000 copies to be sold at $5, in one volume and on the paper. The edition will be off the presses on Nov. 30, and when the 30,000 copies for the book trade are exhausted the one volume edition will go out of print. The two volume one will, however, be kept.

This is the third time that the choice of the Book of the Month club has influenced the price of a book. Emil Ludwig's "Napoleon" was on sale for a couple of months at $5 when they chose it and lowered the price for every one to $3. "Revolt in the Desert" was scheduled for $5. The choice of the Book of the Month club brought it down to $3 for every one. An assured sale of 46,000 copies can well lower the price of any book. It has not, as yet, had any effect on the price of the novels chosen by the Book of the Month club. Their October selection was "Right Off the Map" by C. E. Montague, their November one will be "Red Sky at Morning" by Margaret Kennedy. The Literary Guild's choice for October was "That Man Heine" for November will be "Short History of Women" by J. Langdon Davis, and for December "Vanguard" by Arnold Bennett.

A Valuable First.
Less than a year after its publication a copy of the first edition of Edna St. Vincent Millay's "The King's Henchmen" brought $15 at auction. This copy of thirty-one printed on Japan paper and signed by the author. It was published at $25.

Another War Diary

The latest diary of the war is "The Cannoneers Have Hairy Hairs," which the world thought at first was the work of Howard Vincent O'Brien, who wrote "Wine, Women and War," for no reason except that he had written that book and made a great success, and the world automatically attaches tags to books which are born unnamed. The truth is that Robert J. Casey is its author. It is the diary of an artilleryman, and it was written with the scenery all set and the orchestra all playing. Casey wrote it while he was stationed in the Mont Sec sector. He found an abandoned typewriter one day and, having got his battery working by itself, he began to write a book. He kept at it until the book was finished.

Storm Rages About "Mother India": Is Praised and Condemned

Five months ago Katherine Mayo's amazing account of the social life of India, called "Mother India," was published. No one could have prophesied the storm of discussion which it has raised all over the world, although its importance was immediately recognized. The tumult was great here, but in England it was a tempest. Every one is agreed that Miss Mayo, through her book, may exercise as profound an influence on Indian affairs as any one during the last decade. Arnold Bennett called it "a shocking book in the honorable sense... a book so completely documented is insupportable. Nor is its indictment answerable." In India the Hindus are frenzied about it, and there are outcries for its suppression. Wyndham Lewis, in his new magazine, The Enemy, tears it to shreds and suggests that some one write a book about "Mother America." It is a startling exposure of the great evils that Indian womanhood suffers today, the child marriages, the religious customs, the sex life, and the lack of hygiene in the country. It is one of the few books which really legitimately ravage the thesaurus for synonyms of "amazing."

Four New Volumes Picture Napoleon in Various Colors

"Napoleon and His Family," by Walter Geer, (Doubleday's).
"Napoleon and His Women Friends," by Gertrude Arete, (J. R. Lippincott).
"Napoleon in Captivity," edited and translated by Julian Park, (Century).
"These Quarrelsome Bonapartes," by Robert Gordon Anderson, (Century).
As long as humanity, by and large, is interested in star gazing, so long will it be fascinated by Napoleon, that meteor who trailed his dazzling story across the black sky of history with such an enduring splendor that today, 112 years after Waterloo, the afterglow is still apparent.
And probably as long as man can wield a pen or pound the typewriter, historian, novelist, and biographer will write books on the Corsican. The four listed above are among the latest additions to a roster of comprehensive, vivid, formal and informal of his life. "Napoleon and His Family" is a scholarly history written to show the immense influence of mother, brothers and sisters on the happiness and career of Bonaparte. This clan hung together, or rather all the members of the family hung to Napoleon like barnacles to a rotten stocking. The total weight of Joseph, Louis, Lucien, Jerome, Eliza, Caroline, Pauline, and Letitia would have been enough to submerge any ordinary individual, but the first consul carried them all with him, and once arrived, divided all the spoils of success with them.

He handed out kingdoms and principalities to his brothers and sisters in the grand manner. And they did not refuse his tips. Indeed, they gloated over them. Pauline, to console her for a recent bereavement, was given Guastalla, and was delighted until she happened to think that she had never heard of the place. Where or what was it? When she discovered it was a very small and insignificant duchy, indeed, her rapture turned to dismay. However, this amusing incident was not characteristic of the generosity of her brother. It was rather the exception.

Mr. Geer has written many other books on Napoleon and has a vast knowledge of the subject. His style is formal, but is relieved by his relish of humorous moments and his appreciation of the ironic. This volume is the first of a trilogy, the other two of which are in preparation.

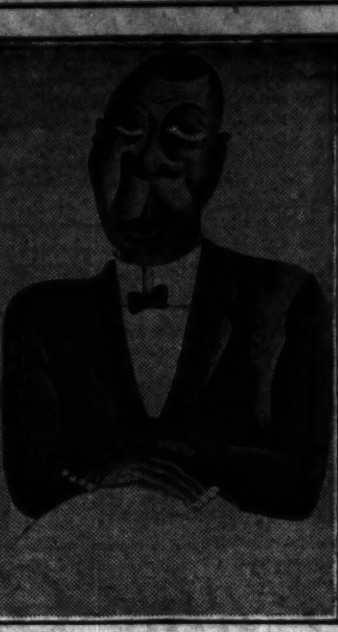

"Napoleon and His Women Friends" is something to talk about over the teacups. Although the author, Gertrude Arete, says it is not written with the intent of adding spicy stories to the world's supply, it certainly does. Mary and Charles were Napoleon's light o' loves, and probably not enough brains among the entire lot to wad a gun with, for the little corporal despised intellect in a woman. Let her be beautiful, let her be sweet, let her be frivolous to the amount of hundreds of thousands of francs—but let her be unintelligent.

Josephine is pictured as the one and only great love in Napoleon's life. The others came and went; only she remained forever in his heart.

This book is written with a good deal of humor and sentiment and old-fashioned phraseology, but is interesting and highly enlightening, to say the least.

"Napoleon in Captivity" is another

NEGRO DRAWINGS

This is a picture from a new volume of "Negro Drawings" (Knopf), by Miguel Covarrubias, the Mexican boy who put the bar in Harlem.

book for the careful student who again wants to be reminded that an individual could not live on the island of St. Helena under ten or twelve thousand dollars a year. Unquestionably, these reports and letters of Count Balmain, Russian commissioner to St. Helena (1816-1820) are contributions to the Napoleonic library of source material.

This translation from the French to quite ordinary English further emphasizes the conditions of Napoleon's captivity; the childlike and petty quarrels of the individuals on the island, and their complete insignificance in the world of affairs. Count Balmain, himself, said his mission and reports were only trifles, and that word best describes the book.

Mr. Anderson has made "These Quarrelsome Bonapartes" ultra modern, but with the skillful hand of the old landscape artist who used to paint in colorful detail those unspiced but strikingly beautiful scenes from sketches position.

THE STORY OF ARCHITECTURE IN AMERICA

By Thomas E. Tallmadge
Fellow of the American Institute of Architects
Formerly Lecturer at the Art Institute of Chicago and Professor of Architecture History at Armour Institute

THIS is the dramatic story of architecture and its champions and of the important part this art has played in the development of our country.

The author says, "I thought best not to make the book a catalogue of buildings or of names, hence the pivotal buildings alone are described and only those few greatest personalities. These men are the heroes of architecture, and their names will live long after their earthly works have perished."

It is a book written for the general reader in non-technical terms, the FIRST consecutive history of architecture in America commencing with our earliest settlements and carrying us down through many beautiful and some hideous periods to the skyscrapers of today.

Bismarck Is Made
Gigantic Figure
by Emil Ludwig

By Fanny Butcher.

"Bismarck," by Emil Ludwig. (Little Brown.)For some time the English reading world has been waiting for Emil Ludwig's "Bismarck."The new experimental college at the University of Wisconsin will be discussed by Prof. Alexander Melk-john before the Chicago forum in the Adolph theater tomorrow afternoon.At the meeting of the West Town forum tomorrow evening at the Metropolitan Masonic temple, Prof. Melk-john will lecture on "Democracy and Education."The Loop Book Fellows will hold their regular meeting at 8 p. m. this evening at the Y. M. C. A. building, 19 South La Salle street. The subject is "Trader Horn," and the discussion will be led by Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour.These two facts should make it the most popular biography of its season.
If the public this year is eager for book and movie, Bismarck is the
it. It is always difficult to tell about the public. Sometimes it pants for the heart of the scandalous secrets of the place of work.

The terrible evidence of the power of
one man for the good or ill, it matters
not, really, of a nation is the precipitate of the book. When the history of Bismarck the man is released and the history of the country as he governed
is dissolved in the book, what is left
is the power of one mind over millions, won not at all by confidence
gained or the love of a nation for its leader, or by any of the means which fate usually puts into the hands of
great leaders, but by the sheer will
power of the man (or, perhaps, it is truer to call it the will to power).
The plain man reading "Bismarck"
cannot but feel what a piece of immense matter—the usual chessman
simile perhaps is as good as any—
man can be in the hands of a really skilled and really determined ruler.The fact that Bismarck suffered
galling disfavor in his old age changes
that idea not in the least, makes it
none the less terrifying, for his majesty was enough to accomplish what he willed.Herr Ludwig traces the growth of
that will through a spectacular youth,
a young manhood which was devoted
to hunting and got its greatest thrill
out of saving a duke threatened by storm by the sheer physical power of determination and a massive aim.With a huge body, never until the day of his death tormented by lack of physical courage, born Junker, of an old
family than the king's, certain of himself, physically, mentally, spiritually,
Bismarck was perfectly equipped for his own fate.If the book is very slow to read—
and it is, terribly so—it is because
the author is building in a slow, rudimentary fashion, his premise of power.
The force of the life grows with every page. It shocks you, almost, it is so ponderously impressive. Right, or wrong, it shakes you at the root of every democratic fiber that for twenty-five years one man could so exercise his theories. There was something romantic about Napoleon. He was doomed because his dream was a dream. Bismarck never dreamed. He was always certain.Herr Ludwig ends his book with this paragraph: "Germany lives. The German prince foretook her in her bitter need; but the German people, whose sterling qualities Bismarck recognized too late, was steadfast, and saved Bismarck's work from destruction."great. Sometimes it likes its biographies cruel and a little bitter. And sometimes—witness Ludwig's "Napoleon"—it likes them glazed.Herr Ludwig is certainly the greatest biographer in modern Germany, or at least the greatest one who has come to English readers in translation.
He frankly writes from a German point of view and with national characteristics. By that I mean that the same minute care which has made of German scientists some of the greatest research men in the world has made of Emil Ludwig one of the great biographers. He substantiates his facts.
He accepts nothing undocumented. He draws conclusions from his masses of research, not from any cursory pre-made theory. He has probably done the final word on "Bismarck." He has certainly built up, in over six hundred pages of the finest type, a colossal figure which the reader cannot forget.He has made of his hero a gigantic figure, almost, incredible. He has traced the growth of Germany not through its people, not through anything either racial or inherent, but through the indomitable will of one man who was determined that his ideas should prevail. Occasionally, as in the war with Austria, of such short duration, the country seems to have been thrust into war as much because Bismarck wanted to show his "assured," wanted to put the king in
his place, as to gain a questionable
victory.The terrible evidence of the power of
one man for the good or ill, it matters
not, really, of a nation is the precipitate of the book. When the history of

ideas should prevail. Occasionally, as in the war with Austria, of such short
duration, the country seems to have
been thrust into war as much because Bismarck wanted to show his "assured," wanted to put the king in
his place, as to gain a questionable
victory.The terrible evidence of the power of
one man for the good or ill, it matters
not, really, of a nation is the precipitate of the book. When the history of Bismarck the man is released and the history of the country as he governed
is dissolved in the book, what is left
is the power of one mind over millions, won not at all by confidence
gained or the love of a nation for its
leader, or by any of the means which
fate usually puts into the hands of
great leaders, but by the sheer will
power of the man (or, perhaps, it is truer to call it the will to power).
The plain man reading "Bismarck"
cannot but feel what a piece of immense matter—the usual chessman
simile perhaps is as good as any—
man can be in the hands of a really
skilled and really determined ruler.The fact that Bismarck suffered
galling disfavor in his old age changes
that idea not in the least, makes it
none the less terrifying, for his majesty was enough to accomplish what
he willed.Herr Ludwig traces the growth of
that will through a spectacular youth,
a young manhood which was devoted
to hunting and got its greatest thrill
out of saving a duke threatened by
storm by the sheer physical power of
determination and a massive aim.With a huge body, never until the day of his death tormented by lack of
physical courage, born Junker, of an old
family than the king's, certain of himself, physically, mentally, spiritually,
Bismarck was perfectly equipped for
his own fate.If the book is very slow to read—
and it is, terribly so—it is because
the author is building in a slow, rudimentary fashion, his premise of power.
The force of the life grows with every

was always certain.Herr Ludwig ends his book with this paragraph: "Germany lives. The

Berestford Writes Glimpses of Own Life Into Novel

By Frank Swinnerton.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—I have lately been reading a new novel by Mr. J. D. Berestford called "The Decoy," and this, while it is not among the best of Mr. Berestford's books, has something of the interest that always attaches to an author's personal life. In this respect, it is no other.

It links up to Mr. Berestford's famous "Jacob" trilogy, wherein is told much of Mr. Berestford's own life story. "The Decoy" is about a young man who goes to the south of France and it includes some admirable details of a part of the Riviera which is less known than it will be in a few years. In this part, between Saint Raphael and Hyeres, where Mr. Berestford rented a small villa with in the last two or three years, and he knows the coast as well as any Englishman could do.

It was here, in St. Maxime, where I also stayed two years ago, that Mr. Berestford had trouble about his water supply, which at one time he could actually obtain only by bribing the manager of the water company. He has put no story of this controversy into "The Decoy," but he has instead very vividly depicted just such a forest fire as the French have been enduring in the last few weeks.

Mr. Berestford is something of an English "expatriate," for in the years since the war he has spent much of his time in various parts of France, sometimes in the south and more recently in the north. I hear that there is some prospect of his return to England, where he will be eagerly received by his friends. He was literary adviser to a prominent firm of London publishers until he was seized by the impulse to live abroad for a while, and I believe he may be persuaded to resume his advisory work. Among the hobbies of literary men I should place the one favored by Mr. Berestford unusually high, for he is a really superb carpenter, and in each of his homes he has contrived to secure a workshop in which to indulge his hobby. Not all hobbies are as useful as this one, and the making of beautiful and graceful things in wood must be a constant reinforcement of Mr. Berestford's admirable scrupulousness in the making of his novels. These have form and lightness of construction at all times, and the quality is one which causes Mr. Berestford's work to be considered in France as among the most esthetically important that is being done at the present time in England.

This reminds me that Mr. E. M. Forster, whose novel, "A Passage to India," was that rare thing a best seller, was the critic's commend with superlatives, has a new book appearing shortly. It is not a novel, but is a revised collection of his lectures. Mr. Forster has been delivering at Cambridge university upon the subject of the "Art of the Novel."

Mr. Forster is one of the most retiring of all our writers. There is not one who has more steadfastly shunned any form of publicity. He lives quietly in a little Surrey village.

THE ARMCHAIR PLAYGOER

For those who like to read what they don't see in the theaters or what they have seen and enjoyed.

"The Best Plays of 1926-1927," by Burns Mantel. (Dodd, Mead.) Mr. Mantel's annual aid and succor to the hinterland where the world must read its plays and not see them, and to those who like to know what happened everywhere even if they were in the midst of theatrical things in New York or here, has just arrived. This year he asked ten leading critics of the drama to vote on the ten best plays. The results of the voting agreed with his own ideas, and he has chosen as the ten best, "Broadway," "Saturday's Children," "Chicago," "The Constant Wife," "The Road to Rome," "The Play's the Thing," "The Silver Cord," "The Cradle Song," "Daisy Mayne," and "In Abraham's Bosom." He gives, as you know, a sort of running commentary on the play, includes some of the most significant dialogue, and thus, without printing the entire play makes it vivid to readers. The book, which is really a yearbook of the drama in America, includes data about the authors of the plays and the plays themselves other than their plots, a list of all plays produced in New York, a survey of the season in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and southern California, the Little Theater movement, plays that have run over 500 performances on Broadway, the birth places and birth dates of prominent players, and a necrology of the stage. Mr. Mantel's book is the work book of every one interested in the subject.

Incidentally, every one of the ten plays which he chooses as the most important of the year has been published as a drama. Of the ten, four are current in Chicago.

IN CHICAGO. There will be no new plays in Chicago next week which have been published, except "June and the Paycock" by Seamus O'Casey, which is to be presented at the Goodman theater. It is in a volume called "Three Plays" published by Macmillan.

IN NEW YORK. A musical comedy of all things—has been made from Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" on the stage leads any one to reading that rare delight this department will have justified itself, if it never prints another line about current plays.

Five Volumes Added Broadway Series of 18th Century French

Five new volumes have been added to the Broadway Library of Eighteenth Century French literature. "The Private Life of the Marquis de Richelieu" has never been wholly authenticated. It is an amazing document whether false or true; if true, obviously startling, if a forgery, all the more interesting as showing what the people had come to believe as possible in a marshy duke of France. It was an able weapon used by democracy against the aristocracy. "Memories of the Bastille" are two amusing and thrilling accounts of life in the Bastille and attempted escape. The story of one of the prisoners is said to be rivaled only by Camilla. "The Reveries of a Solitary," by Jean Jacques Rousseau, is a sequel to the famous "Confessions." "Three Stories," by Crebillon fils, Montesquieu and Abbe de Voltaire, and "Letters and Memoirs of the Prince de Ligne," who was called the Midas of letters, because everything he touched turned to wit, are the other volumes.

"Little Sins" Puts New Laurels on Katharine Brush

[Minton-Balch.]

When Katharine Brush's "Glitter" was published I was moved to say that it was the best book about youth since "This Side of Paradise" and "I prophesied, I believe, what is known as 'Little Sins' by Katharine Brush could write. It is at the same time more and less thrilling than its predecessor, more thrilling from the point of view of the critic, for it shows that without sacrificing any of the qualities which made "Glitter" vivid the author has acquired sophistication and facility in writing. It is less thrilling from the point of view of the reader because "Glitter" was just what its title called it, the thrill of youth.

With sophistication and facility in writing, some of the glitter has worn off of the author's pen, and the story is not so good as one as its predecessor, although the book is a much better one. "Little Sins" has a trifle too much of what our English professors used to call "the long arm of coincidence" in it, but it is a keen book about the kind of girl who is the belle of every prom she attends, wears men as flowers on her shoulder—never really over her shoulder from the point of view of the author, but she wants to live it, and never compromises with fate. As some one very wisely said—in "The Second Man," I believe—one can never have one's own way, at least not on life's own terms.

The heroine of this novel—one of the two heroines—thinks that she can have her cake and eat it, too. It is the story of the kind of youthful "little sins" which are so casual but which build up so terribly into something to crush one. All of this sounds as if it were one of those highly didactic moralistic volumes which our Victorian relatives used to recommend. Any Victorian relative would probably have an attack of angina if you gave it to her to read. It is anything but sweet, simple, and girlish. It has a quality which "Glitter" did not have. "Glitter" was rather a record of youth. "Little Sins" is more of a satire of it.

Katharine Brush has one of the greatest gifts which is the lot of a novelist. She can write dialogue which is more exciting and amusing than the rest of the book. Have you ever noticed how even the best of novels often bog down when the characters begin to talk? Whenever the characters start talking in "Little Sins" your attention is lassoed, thrown and branded. There is more, and more amusing, conversation in "Little Sins" than in any book about the youth of the land that has come this way for years.

The Wings Prize. Nathalia Crane has been awarded the $500 prize for the best poem about the flight of Lindbergh. "Wings of Lead" was the title of her poem. There were 3,000 contestants. Thomas Hornsby Ferri won the second prize, and Babetta Deutsch the third. The judges were Christopher Morley, John Farrer (for the George H. Doran company, who will publish the 100 best poems in volume to be called "The Spirit of St. Louis"), and Mitchell Kennerly, the sponsor with Mr. Doran of the prize.

The Silver Seventies. The curious din and tumult of money conflict in the New York of the '70s, with its parade of mountebank financiers, black Fridays and greenback lockups is the subject of Meade Minnigrode's "Certain Rich Men." The book is a series of the kind of snappy, scintillating sketches that Mr. Minnigrode can do when he wants to. He does it thoroughly about Stephen Girard, John Jacob Astor, Jay Cooke, Daniel Drew, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jay Gould, and Jim Fisk.

Liked Their Wine

Paul Wiltach, in a sprightly book called "Patriots Off Their Pedestals," tells the world a lot about a lot of men. Washington, Franklin, Patrick Henry, Alexander Hamilton, John Adams, Jefferson, John Marshall, and James Madison. And among the tidbits of their home lives he mentions the fact quite casually that they most of them enjoyed their tipple now and then. It is by no means true that because Mr. Wiltach writes about these fathers of the nation as "off their pedestals" that he thinks the pedestals didn't become them, or they the pedestals. He merely looks upon them in their less public moments.

"Recollections Grave and Gay," by George Horton. [Bobbs-Merrill.] George Horton thirty years ago was a writer on the Chicago Herald. He was not only a newspaper man but was the author of five or six pretty well known novels, among them "Like Another Helen." The Cleveland administration liked some things he had said about the President and offered him a job in the diplomatic service in Berlin. He said he'd rather go to Athens, and to Athens he went. He remained twenty-five years as consul and five more years in the east. He emerged a year or so ago with a book called "The Blight of Asia," which was a complete and horrible story of the rule of Turkey in Asia Minor. A second book about the east has just come off the press, "Recollections Grave and Gay." It is much gayer than it is grave. Mr. Horton has written an amusing book in his "Recollections."

Col. Lawrence Halts "Revolt" in Britain; Gives No Reasons

Col. Lawrence has, with no explanation, withdrawn "Revolt in the Desert" from circulation in England. It has been in England, as well as in America, a vast best seller, and nothing untoward has happened about it. It is the theory of those who have theories that Col. Lawrence hates publicity, and after he had made what he thought was enough out of his book he exercised his right to stop its sale.

There was a clause in his contract with his publishers that he could stop its sale "after certain conditions had been met." The publishers refuse to tell what the conditions were, and Col. Lawrence is probably plain Mr. Shaw or some one else somewhere wherever the excitement is bursting. The American edition is not affected in any way. In fact, there is to be a new one at a higher price, illustrated extensively, and containing facsimile reproductions from the English edition of "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom."

THE STARLIT TRAIL

By KING PHILLIPS

"Wild Paradise," etc.

A rugged giant of an Indian strode into the sheriff's office. He wanted Plunk Eveddy. It was either Plunk—or the tomtoms would beat.

It's a story chock-full of startling situations. Here's a new type of Indian, using machine guns but retaining the old law of the West. You won't forget John Powderhorn soon.

W. D. HOFFMAN

Author of "The Desert," etc.

"Broken of the Desert," etc.

Here is an unforgettable picture of a period which for lawless brutality has no equal in American history—the period when helpless emigrants, "scoundrels," and rascally promoters swarmed into the cattle lands, little knowing the dangers ahead of them. W. D. Hoffman makes the reader a breathless eye-witness of the life-and-death struggle, in a fast-moving story of intense episodes.

Col. Lawrence Halts "Revolt" in Britain; Gives No Reasons

Col. Lawrence has, with no explanation, withdrawn "Revolt in the Desert" from circulation in England. It has been in England, as well as in America, a vast best seller, and nothing untoward has happened about it. It is the theory of those who have theories that Col. Lawrence hates publicity, and after he had made what he thought was enough out of his book he exercised his right to stop its sale.

There was a clause in his contract with his publishers that he could stop its sale "after certain conditions had been met." The publishers refuse to tell what the conditions were, and Col. Lawrence is probably plain Mr. Shaw or some one else somewhere wherever the excitement is bursting. The American edition is not affected in any way. In fact, there is to be a new one at a higher price, illustrated extensively, and containing facsimile reproductions from the English edition of "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom."

THE STARLIT TRAIL

By KING PHILLIPS

"Wild Paradise," etc.

A rugged giant of an Indian strode into the sheriff's office. He wanted Plunk Eveddy. It was either Plunk—or the tomtoms would beat.

It's a story chock-full of startling situations. Here's a new type of Indian, using machine guns but retaining the old law of the West. You won't forget John Powderhorn soon.

W. D. HOFFMAN

Author of "The Desert," etc.

"Broken of the Desert," etc.

Here is an unforgettable picture of a period which for lawless brutality has no equal in American history—the period when helpless emigrants, "scoundrels," and rascally promoters swarmed into the cattle lands, little knowing the dangers ahead of them. W. D. Hoffman makes the reader a breathless eye-witness of the life-and-death struggle, in a fast-moving story of intense episodes.

The New Juvenile Floor—The Fifth Everything Boys and Girls Wear

EVERYTHING new and smart and in such excellent taste for the Rising Generation. And everything within a wide price range, so that the ever-changing apparel needs may be met within a restricted expenditure if one desires. Always featured groups, too—for example, these outstanding good values.

AT $20, for the boy who knows style and the mother who requires that boys' clothing give the utmost in wear, are these suits—coat, vest and two pairs of knickers. 7 to 16 years. Sketched above at right.

At $16.75—for the little lad of 3 to 10 years, overcoats of all-wool chinchilla cloth. Also in novelty overcoatings. Sketched directly at the right.

COATS of raccoon dyed fox, well marked, $110 to $140. Large collars, in just the right lengths for boys of 8 to 18 years. Warmly lined in attractive plaid flannel. Sketched above at the left.

YOUNG boys who envy their collegiate brothers will choose these well made Oxfords of Scotch grain leather that have soft toes. Brown or black. 2 1/4 to 6. $6 pair.

Lumber jackets, $7.75, lined and with leather trimmed collars and cuffs. A splendid showing of bright plaids and rich color combinations. Sizes 6 to 16 years.

Squares, $3.75—popular shape for mufflers this year. In the Boys' Section are silk scarfs in good-looking plaids and effective patterns in bright colorings.

Cuff-top hosiery in the heavier weight for cold weather wear. Becoming designs on cuffs. Many different patterns. $1 and $1.50 pair.

"Juvenile"
The Mode for La Jeunesse

WITH a close-fitting crown, a small brim and a suggestion of hand-tucking. In fine soft felt in tan, green, red and black.

At $10

JERSEY frocks, $11.50, in very bright colors, have linen collars and cuffs. For girls 13, 15, 17 years.

THE season's smartest fashion—$30—a three-piece knitted costume—is this frock for young girls. The cardigan jacket and skirt are knitted in heather mixture.

And the over sweater shows a tone and pattern which introduces a tone effect in green, blue and tan. 12 to 17 years. Sketched at the right above.

Leather Gloves
With Wool
Cuffs

FOR boys and girls. These gloves have knitted wool cuffs in contrasting or self color—that fit snugly about the wrists. Others in one-clasp style have little edgings of fur. Tan, brown, sand and gray.

$1.75 Pair

FOR the jeune fille who is "growing up" there are D'Orsay pumps of black suede or patent leather—like big sister's, but having the more youthful Spanish heel. $10 pair.

SWAGGER in their bright colorings and effective designs are these beacon bladed robes for girls.

With collar, cuffs and pockets bound in harmonizing color silk braid. Sizes 6 to 16 years, in red, blue, orange, on tan grounds. $3.50.

Princess slips of crepe de Chine, in the tailored style with a bit of hemstitching, or with lace-trimmed hems, have double hip hems. Sizes 8 to 16 years, $4.95.

$1,500,000 LEFT TO KIN IN WILL OF PHOEBE SEIPP

3-year-old Widow Bequeaths $15,000 to Hospital.

The will of Mrs. Phoebe Seipp, widow of William C. Seipp, Chicago brewer, who was widely known for her charitable work, was filed yesterday before Assistant Probate Judge Edward C. Scheffer. The estate was estimated at $1,500,000.

The bulk of the fortune is to be shared by two sisters and two brothers of Mrs. Seipp—Mrs. Clara Louise Schmidt, 222 East Delaware place; Mrs. Julia Ida Hestert of the Drake hotel; William H. Hestert, 1225 Astor street, and Frank A. Rehm of the Drake hotel.

Three stepsons, children of the brewer who committed suicide in 1921, are left $15,000 each. They are Edwin A. Seipp, 2346 Lincoln park west; Clarence T. Seipp, 232 Walton place, and William C. Seipp of the Seneca hotel.

The grant hospital, to which Mrs. Seipp was a substantial benefactor during her later years, will receive $15,000 under her last testament. The fund is to be a permanent endowment to be used in nursing work. The Illinois Evangelical Lutheran orphan asylum is given $2,000.

Three children of her brother, Jacob F. Rehm, who is confined in the Rehm-Hestert sanitarium at Elgin, are given $15,000 each. Three sons of her deceased brother, Charles Rehm, are also left $15,000 each.

A secretary, Frances B. Topf, 4564 Lake Park avenue, is remembered with $2,000.

A niece, Louise Phoebe Strawn, 600 East Dearborn avenue, Lake Forest, is left a pearl necklace, and another niece, Dorothy Phoebe Schmidt, 222 East Delaware place, is given a diamond collar.

The will provides that for any legatee who attempts to break the testament, his bequest will be reduced to $1. The document was filed by the law firm of Rubens, Fischer, Moser & Barnum.

HE FEARS ROSE AND HER PALS; COPS HELP HIM

Rose Bledsoe, former friend of Yellow Kid Well, was arrested with two men companions last night on a charge of attempting to kidnap Joseph Tenner, 1207 Leland avenue, an orchestra leader. The red haired woman, who has figured prominently before in court affairs, created a disturbance witnessed by a taxi cab and another taxi cab and North avenue.

Tenner had promised to meet her, he said, but a recent quarrel made him afraid to go alone, so he asked for protection and Sergeant Fred Mundt and Peter Gilbooley of the Hudson avenue station were assigned to accompany him. Both stood on the other side of the street while Tenner waited for the woman.

Soon a large automobile drove up to the curb in front of Tenner. Rose was driving. Two men stepped out. "Get in here," gruffly ordered the larger of the pair. The policemen took the trio into custody. "The men gave their names as Peter Korshak of 2112 Douglas boulevard, a contractor, and Harold Partner of 4707 North Racine avenue. "I met her in Detroit recently," Tenner told the police, "and I intended to help place her in a musical comedy. But before long I discovered her jealous disposition and left her. Then she threatened me."

BRYAN DAUGHTER CITES GRAFT IN BIBLICAL TIMES

"Political graft was an old story when Pontius Pilate pocketed most of the revenue collected to build the Jerusalem water works," Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, declared yesterday at a luncheon of the Executives' club at the Hotel Sherman. "The records were falsified and hidden near the water tanks in the hills near Jerusalem, and the charges of fraud were quashed. They were uncovered in 1918 by English engineers while they were searching for a water supply for the British army."

BOARD OF REVIEW TAXING EXPERTS BEGIN SURVEY

Three real estate experts employed by the board of review to investigate last values in Cook county to substantiate or refute charges of inequalities in taxation yesterday began their work by assembling plans and data from the board of assessors. They are Perkins B. B. Thomas, Jr., Sullivan, and Jacob L. Keener. The men were employed following charges of tax inequalities by Miss Margaret Hestert, business agent for the Teachers' federation.

Federal of Judge Wells to Be Held This Morning

Funeral services for Judge Homer W. Wells of the appellate court, who died on Wednesday, will be held this morning at 10:30 from the residence, 217 South Ashland avenue, to the First Congregational church. Courts will be closed in memory of his services on the bench, dating back to 1906. Judge and leading attorneys have been appointed on committees to attend the funeral. The Cook county board, on motion of Commissioner Louis Meisbach, yesterday adopted a resolution of sorrow at Judge Wells' death.

Two Moretti Bros. Get Year to Life in Prison

The Moretti brothers, Frank and Carl, were found guilty by a jury in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court yesterday of robbery with a gun. The judges sentenced them to one year to life in the penitentiary.

(Central Standard Time.)

John T. McCutcheon to Talk Over W-G-N

JOHN T. MCCUTCHEON, author, cartoonist and world traveler, whose cartoons have been a feature of this Tribune's front page for many years, will be featured in tonight's presentation of "Tomorrow's Tribunes" from W-G-N. This Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, "Tomorrow's Tribunes" is the feature in which the news and ads in the following morning's issue of the Tribune.

SASCHA CORADO.

JOHN T. MCCUTCHEON, author of new papers read by Uncle Quin and his girl friend, Sally, Mr. McCutcheon will be radioed during the feature, answering questions on how he works, where he gets his ideas for cartoons, and telling some of the interesting experiences of his life. "Tomorrow's Tribunes" will be heard between 9:30 and 10:10 o'clock.

Outstanding among the day's features in the broadcast this afternoon of the Notre Dame-Minnesota football game, which W-G-N will bring to listeners direct from Carter field, Notre Dame, Ind. Intense interest has always marked a meeting of these two schools and every ticket was sold some time ago. Stay-at-homes will have a great opportunity to hear Quin Ryan's thrilling account of the game, as well as his description of some of the beauty spots of Notre Dame. The broadcast begins at 1:15 o'clock.

Two vocal programs that should interest listeners will be heard over W-G-N tonight. The first of these will mark the return to radio of Sascha Corrado, the European baritone, whose programs were such a feature when presented from W-G-N last summer. His program tonight, to be broadcast between 8 and 9 o'clock, features English and German songs, among these latter Schubert's "Death and the Maiden." The second vocal feature will be a half hour recital by Mark Love, popular basso, between 9 and 9:30 o'clock.

Ambrose Larsen at the Wurlitzer organ will give another of his popular "collegiate" programs tonight between 9:30 and 9 o'clock, featuring school songs of all the leading colleges in the mid west as well as several numbers reminiscent of college days. During this period football scores will also be read while Mr. Larsen plays the appropriate school song. Football scores are also broadcast by W-G-N during the late afternoon and at 6:10 o'clock.

Lyon & Eddy melody time, presenting the Washburn Trio, will again be one of the big features of the evening. This program will be heard between 10:40 and 11 o'clock. Two featured numbers will be an Hawaiian march, "Hawaiian Hotel," and "Aloha Land," a Hawaiian waltz.
